A UNIVERSITY UPRISING.

Five Hundred Students Mob a Residence in Ann Arbor.

A letter from Ann Arbor, Michigan, dated November 1st, gives an account of a serious uprising of about five hundred of the students of the medical college attached to the university at that place, wherein a house of ill-reputation was mobbed and almost demolished, stones, pistols and breach-loading rifles being called into exciting use. Briefly, the story is as follows: About twelve years ago a woman, accompanied by a man ostensibly her husband and known by the name of Rapajie, took residence in Ann Arbor. For some years they lived there an unenviable life of quarreling, until one day the man was missing, and the woman with two children dependent upon her was left alone and without means of support. Soon after she rented a house in a prominent locality, furnished it and received "boarders," who, however, were not over particular about forming new and hasty acquaintances. In short, the house became absolutely known as one of the most notorious in the city, and was frequently visited by students at the college, and unfortunate connections existing between the University men to a high pitch of indignation, have several times been formed by students and female inmates of the Rapajie house. On the 30th of last month one of the students, a young man named Howard K. Williams, of prominent family in Muskegon, Michigan, committed suicide rather than have performed

THE MARRIAGE CONTRACT which he had promised to fulfill with one Lou White, a frail one of Mrs. Rapajie's boarders. The death, in this manner, of their companion so exasperated the students that they resolved to order the inmates of the house to leave town, peacefully if they would, forcibly if they must. The next day resolutions to act that night were passed about and agreed to by a large number of the medics, and at night, a place of meeting having been determined upon, at 9 o'clock about five hundred of them met and proceeded in a body to the residence of the obnoxious women. They were expected, and their first demands for the appearance of the proprietress met with no response. Finally she appeared at a window, and, upon being requested to leave town, refused. No sooner said than done, a huge stone, thrown by one of the students, crashed through the window, carrying with it sash and all. This was replied to by the discharge of a pistol in the hands of the woman, which so infuriated the students that a regular bombardment was begun. Stones of all sizes were thrown, breaking door-panels, windows and making the scene one of terrible excitement. Pistols were brought into use and discharged at the windows, from which startling responses came, a posse of men having been hired early in the day to DEFEND THE BUILDING, and a large supply of arms and ammunition having been purchased. One student leaned against a fence and deliberately discharged a breach-loading rifle at the house until his ammunition was exhausted. The public authorities were powerless to quell the disturbance, and it is alleged that they did not wish to, being in sympathy with the students, none of whom were arrested although no attempt at disguise was made. Two of the women attempted to escape from a rear door, but were seen and surrounded by about fifty students, who frightened them almost to death, one of them fainting and finally being carried back to the house. After this had continued for some time without sign of abatement, Mrs. Rapajie announced her willingness to leave town and the siege was raised. With all the firing no one was seriously hurt, though a policeman and a student both had their caps shot through and another student had a piece of his ear shot away and minor injuries were many. So far as heard from the authorities action was taken by the authorities except to serve papers on Mrs. Rapajie to leave town. The students appear to entirely control the place.

Dignified Butler. CHICAGO, November 9. — General Butler makes the following announcement in an interview printed this morning: "I propose to devote the remainder of my life to the service of the people, if they demand it. I came forward in this campaign at the demand of the people, and I should do the same thing again and again. I see some of the Republican papers say I am dead—politically dead. I am glad they think so. If they do, they will go on in their career of oppressing the people, both in the state and in the nation; if they do, I will show them the liveliest corpse at the funeral they have ever heard of. Personal success or defeat to me is nothing. Remember!"

Let Us Convert Them. Afghan morality, as expounded by one of the most popular of Afghan poets: Shouldst thou bestow but a drop of water on the thirsty, 'T would become an ocean between thee and the fire of hell; Shouldst thou give but a grain of corn to the hungry, 'T will be hereafter thy provision in eternity.

SUFFERING SEAMEN.

The Crew of the "Lauretta Fish" Starved and Beaten.

[S. F. Chronicle, Sunday.]

The American ship Lauretta Fish arrived in this port last Wednesday, 100 days from New York, and Captain Hodgman, the commander, was subsequently arrested by United States Marshal Poole on a charge of neglecting to provide the seamen with proper food during the voyage, and put under $2000 bonds to appear before the United States grand jury on Tuesday next. Two of the crew are said to have died on the voyage, and the survivors are in a horrible condition from scurvy. Three have been sent to the United States marine hospital, being unable to walk, and the remainder confined in the county jail, to be held as witnesses against the captain. The vessel did not touch at any port, notwithstanding the length of the voyage and the lack of provisions. Twelve of the crew have united in a written statement to the United States district attorney, from which the following has been taken: They were roughly handled by the captain and a boarding-master named Wilde before they left New York, and refused to work in consequence. On the morning of the 7th of May, Wilde and the captain, with thirty boarding-masters, went aboard the ship and asked the crew to go to work. They refused, and the thirty-one visitors and the captain beat them with belaying pins and clubs, leaving them bruised and bleeding; then they drove the crew into the fore-cabin, keeping up the beating until the anchor was hoisted, the ruffians standing over them until they got to sea and the pilot had left. When a fortnight out the men were put upon short rations of four hard biscuits a day, a little hash for breakfast and occasionally some soft bread for supper. The meals became smaller every day, until they were reduced to a few spoonfuls of cornstarch, a piece of bread and meat, and a pint of tea. The crew began to fail in strength and one of them made an application for medicine, but was refused, and called a "loafing Englishman," and told that he would get a dose of quicksilver. In a few days he took to his bed, and was dragged out by the mate and left lying on the deck without covering. The frost took effect in his fingers, toes and hips, and he commenced to decay from lack of attention. He died in horrible agony on the 20th of September. At the time of his death he was reduced to a mere skeleton. The statement concludes as follows:

After joining the ship we were forty hours without anything to eat. We were treated more like dogs than men, especially since we came around the cape, having to work all day and attend to the pumps, as the ship was making a lot of water.

A Fiendish Plot. [Eureka Leader.]

On election day the workmen at the Price & Davis mine were granted a holiday in order they might have leisure to deposit their ballots, and as a consequence, the claim was deserted during the twenty-four hours ensuing. Some miscreant, taking advantage of their absence, deposited a cigar box filled with gun powder, caps and cartridges in the ash-hole of the large, confidently calculating that the heat from the fire when again kindled, would explode the infernal contrivance. Fortunately, the snow which had fallen, covered the forgo, and the blacksmith, in removing it also cleared away the ashes, and discovered the box. But for this fortunate circumstance, an explosion would have taken place and all near the forgo would have been blown to atoms, as there was a sufficient quantity to have destroyed everything in the vicinity. A fiend who would deliberately put so dastardly a plot into execution, deserves death, and if he were discovered, would undoubtedly receive that punishment.

Dr. Isaac Butt, member of parliament for Limerick, has issued an address to the electors of that city, virtually, however, to the Home Rulers throughout Ireland, declaring that the policy of obstruction involves total disruption of the existing Irish parliamentary party.

A Charleston, West Virginia, dispatch says: The United States court in session here has 181 indictments against moonshiners before it. There are likely to be 300 or 400 of these indictments before the close of the session. The illicit distillers are said to be terribly demoralized.

The Clothing War.

EDITOR GAZETTE: In the Journal of October 2d, I find an announcement signed L. Abrahams, of the White House. This announcement sets forth that other dealers in clothing keep "humbag shops" and offer "unsalable goods" to the public. He also believes that these humbug dealers "like to deceive the public." I represent, for my part of the humbuggers, Mr. Editor, I represent that when I offer "unsalable goods" I always suffer for it, and not Mr. Abrahams. The people have worn my goods long enough to know better than Mr. Abrahams whether they come from a "humbag shop" or not. During my many years residence and business in Reno, I have made my own reputation and it is safe from the insinuated charges brought by this newcomer at the White House.

Now, whether I keep a humbug shop or not, I shall continue to sell the best goods in market and at the lowest rates. I shall sell men and boys clothing cheaper than "Whitey" can sell them. I shall keep more goods, and a fresher stock always on hand. And all of these assertions, so far from being "lies to deceive the public" can be proven by my patrons during fair week as they have been proven any time during the past ten years.

M. NATHAN, Virginia Street.

Don't Forget It.

If you are troubled with nervousness, are disheartened, tired of life, fear death or feel out of sorts, as the saying is, you may safely conclude that you have the Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint. The liver is very apt to become torpid at this season of the year, as poisons arising from marshes, stagnant water are more numerous, and are, through inhalation, taken into the blood. Unless the liver is strong and active, and furnishes a supply of fresh and pure blood to drive out the impurities, the above mentioned symptoms surely follow, and if not checked, end in more terrible diseases and death. White's Peppermint Cure proves itself the great liver panacea. Its action on the liver is different from any medicine ever compounded. Its cures are truly wonderful. Try it. Price, twenty-five cents and seventy-five cents. For sale by our druggists, OGDEN & SHERMAN, and good

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.—I do not sell any goods 50 per cent. below cost, or even at cost, but I offer my first-class stock of clothing, furnishing goods, boots and shoes, hats and caps, trunks and valises, etc., which have been bought for cash at the lowest market rates. Therefore I wish the public to post themselves on my prices before going to the humbug shops where they are always drumming into the ear that they are selling at cost, or below cost. They either bought unsalable goods or they lie to deceive the public; they don't deserve to be patronized. Remember the One Price Store—The White House—No. 19 Commercial Row, next door to the postoffice.

The Happy Savage.

How much happier the simple savage must be than the civilized man rushing on madly to an early grave, under the tremendous pressure of modern life! To be sure the madly rushing one may, in Reno, lean up against a post on Commercial Row, smoke his cigar and keep his hands in the warm pockets of his ulster while he surveys and envies the Piute sitting on the railroad track in a tattered duster, no shirt, a pair of breeches of the year 1860, and rubbing his shivering shins with his stiff hands and sniffing ravenously at the gale whistling by from the restaurant. Ah, but the innocent, simple joys of his childish life, compared to our raging struggle for wealth and power. While we modern victims are lying in the wildly exciting easy chair and wearing out our brains by keeping track of the fluctuations of the money markets of the world in the evening paper, the happy Piute is surrounded by comfortable walls of snow, warming himself and smoking his eyes out over a sagebrush fire, while his squaw hushes the yells of his hungry and freezing progeny and keeps a sharp lookout that the skulking coyote may not by a sudden swoop walk off with the hunk of beef, old enough to be grandfather, lying at her feet. Ah, the fast age, which is wearing us poor, overworked moderns out before our time!

Sabbath Conversation.

Sabbath conversation among old-timers in a Commercial Row saloon. "There's them church bells a-goin' agin'."

"There had ought to be a law agin them blasted bells. How's a man to enjoy his beer with such a devil of a row goin' on?"

"Them church people haven't got no consideration for the feelin's of their fellow citizens; if they have damme."

"Well, what's fun for some is blazes for others."

"It's funny how folks kin find any fun in goin' to church."

"I ain't been inside of one for eighteen years."

"I ain't seen a pulpit since '60."

"My last pious racket was in '53 over to Marysville."

Then the three old-timers having indulged in this self-praise, drank their beer with great complacency.

Parties knowing themselves to be indebted to me, either on notes or accounts, are hereby notified to come forward and settle the same by December 1st, or collection will be enforced by law.

J. C. HAGERMAN.

CLEARED UP AT LAST.

Elder Stephens Tells Us What Daniel and John Meant to Say.

People who have stumbled through the prophecies of Daniel and the book of Revelations, with nothing more improving than a general feeling of being in a free menagerie, should go and hear Elder B. A. Stephens make the dark things clear. It is amazing how easily he can make a prophecy which to the worldly mind appears very jammmy as clear and transparent as the murmuring waters of the translucent Truckee. The four beasts of Daniel are trotted out and put through their paces by the Elder until it becomes quite plain that they are not beasts at all, but densely populated nations making war upon one another and doing other things which beasts would not be guilty of. The remarkable visions of John on Patinos are quite simple after the Elder has focused the light of his intelligence upon them. For instance, the red dragon with ten heads, on each of them a crown and with a tail which reaches to heaven and annexes a number of the stars, is none other than our friend the Roman empire. Then the leopard-beast is something or other very different from what it appears and is responsible for several thousand pages of human history. Finally the animal with horns like a lamb, a face like a man and a voice like a dragon, is, when Elder Stephens simply explains matters, to be taken for—whom do you think? Why Uncle Sam himself, of course. The explanations of the Elder are nearly as remarkable as the prophecies themselves and a great deal easier to understand. It may be objected that there is too much of Elder Stephens and explanation to very little prophecy, but such an objection is fatuous. Everybody should be glad that Elder Stephens knows all about the beast which nobody else can make head nor tail of, for, as we all know, wicked persons have impudently asked what the use of a prophecy is which nobody can understand and which is never discovered to be a prophecy until the event which it foretold has taken place. This is foolish. Elder Stephens knows a prophecy when he sees it and sixteen-headed beasts with bodies like leopards and feet like a bear are as easy as print to him. You can't doubt for a moment when you hear the Elder that if Daniel and John had wrung in dozens of beasts more the talented Elder could easily, with the present stock of history on hand, have found places for them all. Indeed the lack of beasts to fill important historical cages is the Elder's one weak point. Go and hear him for yourself. He is explaining night and day at the Congregational church in the interest of the seventh day for the Sabbath and the second advent.

UNBURIED FOR 15 YEARS.

The Skeleton of an Old Prospector Found Under a Tree.

Ike Johnston, of Truckee Meadows, on Friday last while out for a load of wood among the cedars in the hills about four miles southwest of Deep Well, on the Pyramid road, sixteen miles from Reno, made a gasty discovery. Beneath a tree he came upon the bleached skeleton of a man, who had evidently been dead for many years, for the bones were very white and some of the smaller ones gone having been probably carried off by coyotes. The locality is one which in early days was frequented by prospectors. To this class the man had evidently belonged, for around the bones were the rusty remains of a prospector's outfit a pick, shovel, ax, fryingpan, milkpan, coffee pot, a pair of gold scales, a pair of spring balances, two pairs of shears and a butcher's knife. There were also the remains of a yellow blanket, overcoat, and a pair of brown blankets. A piece of old weather-beaten halter, rope also lay near. This and the extensive outfit indicated that the old prospector was mounted and in good circumstances. The bones were brought to town and are now in the possession of Dr. Hogan who says they must have been those of a large and powerful man. The condition of the skeleton goes to show that the suns and snows of ten or fifteen years have been at work upon it. How the wanderer came to his death in what was then the almost unknown wilds of Nevada, can only be conjectured. He may have been murdered by Indians as he slept in camp or sickness may have seized him and death come to him as he lay there alone. There is a bare possibility that some old resident may call to mind some one among the many who went out to prospect and never came back, and connect him with the articles mentioned as being found with the bones. Or a horse may have wandered back with an empty saddle while some one may recall. The articles found will be brought in in a few days.

FELLOW'S
COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES.

THIS DISCOVERY

Is the result of a series of Scientific Experiments based upon the theory that "for the successful cure of Wasting Diseases, the nervous system must be made vigorous and healthy."

One of the first symptoms of disease affecting either the Liver, Lungs, Heart, Stomach, or Genital Organs, is a loss of nervous power. This is followed by muscular relaxation, weakness, and emaciation of all the organs which depend upon them for health or involuntary muscular action, the weaker suffering first.

The inventor, acting upon this idea, that the muscles and nerves depend upon each other for efficient strength and action, and that they must be treated directly in order to speedily and permanently cure diseases of the organs which they control, became convinced, after months of experiment, that no other preparation produced such potent and direct effects upon the nervous system as his

Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and except in cases of actual organic loss, that it would restore patients suffering from those maladies.

Amongst the diseases overcome by the use of this remedy are the following:—
Chronic Constipation,
Chronic Dyspepsia,
Asthma,
Chronic Bronchitis,
Consumption,
Chronic Diarrhoea,
Chronic Laryngitis,
Melancholy,
Nervous Debility.

Debility, resulting from Typhoid and other low fevers, Diphtheria, Erysipelas, Hypochondria, Nervous Excitability, Marasmus or Wasting of the Muscles, Aphonia or Loss of Voice, Strabismus of the Eyes, Interrupted and Feeble Action of the Heart, Surrogate Paralysis caused by mucous obstruction of the Lungs and Air Passages leading thereto, and Debility from various causes. Indigestion and habitual Constipation almost always arise from weakness of the muscles and nerves of the stomach and bowels. In such cases, Fellow's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has proved itself of the greatest service by inducing healthy peristaltic action of the intestines. The evacuations soon become copious and healthy, without producing the effect of purgative medicine.

Weakness of the Joints and Muscles, Incapacity of the Blood, and Excessive Wasting may be cured by attention to the regular described doses, and by due regard to the habits of life.

FELLOWS'

Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites

The power of arresting diseases displayed by this preparation is honorably acknowledged by the medical faculty in every section where it has been introduced, and the large sale is the best guarantee of the estimation in which it is held by the public.

This Syrup will cure PULMONARY CONSUMPTION in the first and second stages, will give great relief and prolong life in the third. It will cure ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, RHEUMATISM and COUGHS. It will cure all diseases originating from weakness of MUSCULAR ACTION and NERVOUS FORCE.

DOWN WITH THE GRABBERS

NO MORE SWINDLING!

NO MORE EXTORTION!

THE MECHANICS' STORE

Whose reputation for straightforwardness and square dealing is known far and wide, and needs no further comment, employs an army of clerks for the sole purpose of filling COUNTRY ORDERS, and thousands living outside of Sacramento avail themselves of this chance, do all their buying by sending orders direct to the Mechanics' Store, and thereby avoid paying enormous prices to the merciless grabbers who infest every city and town on the coast.

The method upon which the Mechanics' Store is conducted is universally known; yet, for the benefit of some who may not know, we will here repeat it. It is as follows: Every article in the house is bought at the lowest market rates, to which only a small profit is added. The price once fixed is marked in plain figures on every article, and in never deviated from, thus giving the poor judge of goods a chance to supply his wants as low as the most expert buyer.

Nothing is Misrepresented! No Faults are Concealed!

All are treated alike—a person living 500 miles away sending an order obtains the goods at precisely the same prices as customers who are present to select for themselves. All goods are cheerfully exchanged, and in cases where nothing suitable can be found the money will be willingly refunded.
